Strange error I am making a function that returns a particular value when given a number. The problem is that no matter what I do, my function will either return infinite messages to the client, or it returns an infinite number of errors that are all the same: bad or small format I am sure this is because the json I'm sending the information to is bad for the client. It happens when I test with a minimum amount of data and also that the computer I use is different than the pc that I am sending with the data. My guess is that the json is not received by the client and thus I get this error and the function does not even get called. I have to apologize because I don't know how to write code for this website. This is what I use to send the data to the client: do { req.body = JSON.stringify(j); req.body = JSON.stringify(l); req.body = JSON.stringify(s); req.body = JSON.stringify(e); req.body = JSON.stringify(b); req.body = JSON.stringify(t);
